Inlay Art

Arabesque pattern on the wooden case is made piece by piece from precisely cut wood. After boiling, steaming and painting procedure, the tiny wood pieces are put together to form the vivid flower and leaf decoration. Under the refined skill of proficient carpenters, each Intarsia clock is the masterpiece of wooden artwork.

Life of Wood

The wood materials used for inlay is carefully chosen. After repetitive steaming and boiling procedure, the wood captured the amazing color changing feature. The wood material grows darker progressively, making the clock more and more graceful as time goes by.

The making of stained glass clock

The stained glass materials are strictly selected from the famous German glass factory.

According to the design pattern, the glasses are cut into the required shape by hand and then go through multiple grinding processes to make them smooth. The richer the color of the clock face, the more complicated the process of glass cutting and grinding. Each glass clock is a unique art piece by amazing craftsmanship.

After the clock face design is made, the glass pieces are joined together by hot-melt welding technology. The silver-white soldering is not only the welding material but also outline of the petal pattern on the clock face which becomes a part of the artwork. The process of welding requires skillful control of the soldering to ensure the thickness of each line is even and the bonding between glasses is perfectly done.

STAINED GLASS CLOCKS

Magic Motion Clocks

The idea of Magic Motion clock originates from a traditional Japanese tease, Karakuri, a mechanical device to take a person by surprise by hidden magic or an element of mystery. Every hour on the hour, the clock plays magic motions & wonderful melodies which is the best home entertainment piece with time telling function. Each clock is created through intricate combination of mechanism & precisely made parts to give astonishing effect and at the same time embraces the beauty of an elegant timepiece to decorate any home.
